Los Angeles, CA — Interior designer Rydhima Brar, founder of R/terior Studio, was honored by IPAX Global for her exceptional work in the interior design industry. Winning three prestigious awards — Best Hotel Suite Interior for the Cornell Inn, Best Residential Project for the Winter Palace, and Best Bathroom Design for the Denver Square Project — Rydhima's projects highlight key design trends and approaches boutique hotels can embrace to elevate their guest experiences.

Creating a distinctive, memorable guest experience is more important than ever in the competitive world of boutique and luxury hotels. Thoughtful, high-quality design plays a crucial role in this — and Rydhima Brar's approach offers valuable insights for those in the boutique hospitality industry.

For boutique hotels, the ability to blend aesthetic appeal with everyday usability is a key differentiator. Rydhima's work exemplifies how careful consideration of each element — furniture, materials, layout, and design details — can create a lasting impression. This approach enhances the entire guest experience.

One of the standout elements of Rydhima's designs is her emphasis on personalization. From custom furnishings to unique design features, she shows how boutique hotels can stand out by offering spaces that feel bespoke and tailored to the individual guest experience. In a crowded hospitality market, guests are increasingly seeking environments that reflect their tastes and provide a sense of place. By integrating personalized elements into their designs, boutique hotels can create environments that feel exclusive, elevating the guest experience and fostering lasting connections.

The design decisions for boutique hotels can significantly impact guest satisfaction and a hotel's brand identity. Rydhima's projects highlight the importance of attention to detail — small design choices such as lighting fixtures, artwork, and custom furniture can shape the atmosphere and functionality of a space. Boutique hotels, in particular, can stand out by creating spaces that are not only luxurious but also practical, with design elements that are beautiful and functional.

As Rydhima's work demonstrates, design is about creating a space that enhances the quality of life for those who use it. Boutique hotels looking to create a high-end, memorable guest experience would benefit from prioritizing design that blends elegance, comfort, and individuality.
